How to Draw Squidward

Draw SpongeBob's irritable neighbor, Squidward, by following these step-by-step instructions. Be sure to use a pencil with a good eraser because some steps require erasing.

Place a straight line down the center of the panel.

Give Squidward two egg-shaped eyes.

Add a vertical rectangle with rounded corners for Squidward's torso.

Add a slightly curved horizontal line to his mouth to accentuate his frown. The line should have a small curve around each end.

Help Squidward get dressed by giving him a shirt and collar. Start by drawing the V in his collar.

Add his back feet. They look kind of like shark fins.

Give him one line for his flat eyebrow and two curves for his raised eyebrow.

Add scattered freckles to the top of Squidward's head.

Add a small, filled-in rectangle to each eye.

Add suction cups.

Erase the line shown in blue.

DRAW SQUIDWARD HERE!

Cosmo-ology

Who knew how well connected Cosmo is to the Nicktoons universe? Using the numbered list, see if you can match each trait to one pair of characters. For example, both Cosmo and Twister are clueless, so we wrote 29 in the box and crossed it off the list. Be careful: Some traits apply to more than one linked pair, but there is only one correct solution. We've done a few to get you started. Answers on page 62.

You really Otto share that.

Splashdown

Jennie Slip has lost her snorkel. Joey Slide has lost his bathing suit.
Help both kids find their way through this humongous water-slide maze to the pools with their missing objects.

THE RULES:

- ① Jennie and Joey can't use any of the same pools or slides, though the slides they use may cross.
- ② Neither kid can slide into a pool that has other kids, a shark, an octopus, a desert, a sea monster, or pee in it.
- ③ The kids can only go down slides, not up.
- ④ Each kid has to end in the correct final pool. No fair going to the wrong pool and then getting out and jumping in the right one!

If you get bored on long car trips, then you should consider Kneecap Theater! Here's how to do it.

Add costumes and props when called for.

Kneecap Theater

NOTE: Get a parent's permission before drawing on your legs.

Thigh-tanic

(Nighttime on the luxury liner Thigh-tanic. Throughout the play, all four thighs should be swinging back and forth to simulate the rocking of a boat on the high seas. Jack and Wose are close together throughout the play.)

JACK: Wose!

SCABBY: (Bouncing up and down) How dare you talk to my fiancée!

WOSE: Yes, Jack? Yes?

JACK: Wose, even though you're much richer than I am, and even though you are engaged to marry Scabby McNobby, I must patella you that...

WOSE: Yes?

SOUND EFFECT: Kraka-THROOM!

CAPTAIN: (Bouncing up and down) The Thigh-tanic has run into an ice pack! It has shattered the anterior cruciate of the boat! We're all gonna freeze! Abandon ship!

SCABBY: I'm getting out of this joint! (Scabby's thigh disappears under the captain's thigh.)

JACK: Wose, you must get off the ship! There's only one seat left in the lifeboat. I'll stay, but remember, you've got your whole leg ahead of you—plus an ankle and a foot!

WOSE: You mean?

JACK: Yes, your body part will go on. Ack! The cold! (Dies)

(Curtain)

Characters:

JACK
SCABBY McNobby
WOSE
CAPTAIN (wears hat)

Use washable watercolor markers to draw the characters' faces on your thighs and knees.

Act out the scripts. (Try not to bug the driver.)

The Knee-ple's Court

(A courtroom)

JUDGE: The Knee-ple's Court is now in session!

LEGS: Your Honor, my client, Perry Pavement, is the victim of extreme knee-glignence. When Rita Ryder and Perry were pedaling a bicycle together uphill, Rita mispedaled and sent them both crashing to the street. Perry received terrible scrapes, and his thigh-sight may never return.

PERRY: (Jumping up and down) And to cap it all off, Rita never even apologized!

JUDGE: Mr. Pavement, I'm warning you against any further outbursts.

PERRY: (Stops jumping) Sorry, Your Honor.

JUDGE: Miss Ryder, I've been informed that you are defending yourself. Why did you decide to do that?

RITA: It was my knee-jerk response, because Perry's story is an obvious lie! He was the one who was pedaling, and I was hurt. I've been bedridden with a terrible thigh-roid condition since the accident.

JUDGE: Interesting. What evidence do you have against Miss Ryder, Mr. Thighman?

LEGS: I submit to the court a photo taken by a passerby on the day of the accident. It clearly shows Rita Ryder downing a grape Knee-High soda before getting on the bicycle. The sugar rush from the soda no doubt caused her poor pedaling.

RITA: (Crosses on top of Legs Thighman) That photo is a fake, I tell you! A fake!

LEGS: (Bounces Rita off of him) Get off! Don't ever cross me, lady!

JUDGE: (Bumping legs violently) This whole backseat is out of order!

(The judge's bump knocks Legs into Rita and Rita into Perry. Rita's towel and Perry's sunglasses fall off.)

PERRY: I admit it—I faked the injury to my thigh-sight to get Rita to pay attention to me. We used to be so close—we were like two limbs on one body. But lately it was like something was coming between us.

RITA: Oh, Perry! That was the bicycle seat. I felt the same way. I was faking my thigh-roid problem! But I'm not faking when I say I want to be with you! (They kiss)

LEGS: Well, Your Honor, it looks like this case is all wrapped up.

JUDGE: Yes. Love—and being part of the same body—will keep them together.

(Curtain)

Characters:

JUDGE
LEGS THIGHMAN, lawyer (wears a tie)
PERRY PAVEMENT, victim (wears sunglasses)
RITA RYDER, defendant
(wrapped in a towel up to her "chin")

Shankenstein's Monster

(Midnight in a dark laboratory in an old mansion. Ace Gams confronts Dr. Shankenstein.)

ACE GAMS: I'm a hard-hitting reporter for Out-on-a-Limb Magazine. I hear you've been creating hideous monsters in this lab!

DR. SHANKENSTEIN: That's nonsense! Those shorts you're wearing must be too tight!

ACE GAMS: Tell the truth, Doc. Don't make me thigh-slap it out of you.

THE MONSTER: (Bouncing up and down under the towel) Brrrrraaaahhhh!

DR. SHANKENSTEIN: (Bumping violently into the monster) Quiet, you fool!

ACE GAMS: Good Lord, man! What kind of horror have you got under that sheet!

DR. SHANKENSTEIN: This kind! (He pulls off the towel, revealing the monster.)

Characters:

Your Screen Door... Love It and Slam It

Get to know your screen door. It's the only thing between you and a great summer!

The door handle can pinch. Always hold it by the outer handle, not by the inner pinchy part.

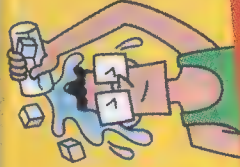

Although you can write your name in the dust on the screen door, it may not come out when the screen is rinsed off! This and punching a hole in the screen door are two primary causes of summer groundings.

Scratch marks on the bottom half of the door can be blamed on pets and younger siblings. Scratch marks on the top half are bound to be blamed on you.

We know a girl who strained her pinky while holding the door open for her cat, Snowball. Snowball didn't budge. The lesson: When in doubt, let the door slam.

Types of Screen-Door Slamming:

- ✓ Big Rush, No-Pretense-of-Holding-the-Door-at-All Closing
- ✓ Angry Slam
- ✓ Gentle Parental Closing (technically not a slam)

The Difference Between Indoors and Outdoors

Find out whether you are inside or outside.

In order to truly enjoy summer, it is important to determine whether you are inside or outside. If you are indoors, you can enjoy board games, television, and rummaging through your siblings' belongings. If you are outdoors, you can play baseball, burn ants with a magnifying glass, or wait for the mail.

Do you feel a slight burning sensation on your skin? Do you find you have to look away from a bright yellow orb far above you? Answering "yes" might mean that you're outside. Also, do you remember walking through any sort of door? Is there carpet under your feet, or is it grass? (Sometimes the two are easily confused.) These are all very important questions.

Here's a shortcut to tell if you're in or out:

Step 1: Determine whether you are sitting on a couch. In other words, are you inside?

Step 2: Determine whether there is sky above your head. In other words, are you outside?

If you find yourself dodging cars and bicycles, chances are you're outside.

Warming Up, Cooling Down, and Sno-Cones

Summertime can be divided into two main experiences.

WARMING UP
Some outdoor summer activities, such as swimming, are designed to cool you off. Before you can get cool, however, you have to be warm. If you are not warm, you may be inside, or it may not be summer.*

COOLING DOWN
If you feel warm, it's time to experience what experts call "cooling down." Cooling down occurs when the temperature around you goes down in a cooling way. You can tell you're cooling down when the sweat on your forehead dries up.

To cool down quickly, try air-conditioning!

SNO-CONES
Sno-cones are balls of shaved ice squirted with sugary colored water. They come in many flavors, including red, blue, and purple. Scientists believe that sno-cones are one of the leading causes of "cooling down" and of "blue lips" in the United States.

Do not put a sno-cone on your head to cool down. It will only make you sticky and attract bees.**

STUPID PEOPLE FRYING

It's a hot, sunny day, and the folks in this poolside scene are watching their SPF. No, we're not talking about the Sun Protection Factor of their sunscreen. The 10 numbered situations in this illustration can be described with three words: the first beginning with an S, the second with a P, and the last with an F. For example, you'll notice a Squid Playing Flute (number 8). Can you figure out the nine other examples before you burn to a crisp? Answers on page 62.

See if you can figure out in which suitcase each of the five unpacked items belongs. Write the correct numbers in the blanks.

Answers on page 62.

HINTS: First decide what the things in each suitcase have in common. Some objects seem to belong in more than one suitcase, but there's only one correct combination that uses each unpacked item once.

Go, Packers!

by Robert Leighton

When the Packer family travels, they pack their bags in a very strange way: All the items in a suitcase have something in common. For example, everything in suitcase A (below) has holes. See if you can figure out in which suitcase each of the five unpacked items belongs. Write the letter of the suitcase in the space provided.

Send Cookies! / Candy! / Help!

If you're stuck at summer camp and not exactly having the time of your life, try sending this (almost) foolproof letter home. Circle one of the phrases in each group.

Dear ( Mom, Dad, Parental Guardian, )

I've been here at Camp ( Scab-Bee-Nee No-Kan-Dee Run-Ing-Soar ) for a few days now, and things just aren't going so great.

It's not that I'm homesick. I just feel kind of ( bored silly. sick to my stomach. homesick. ) But, hey! Don't worry about me.

I started out in ( Otter Ferret Piranha ) Bunk, but I was moved out after one kid accused me of short-sheeting all the ( beds. checking accounts. newspapers. ) Well, I did no such thing! Now I'm in ( Skunk Funk Gunk ) Bunk, and things are no better.

This morning, one of my fellow campers poured ( a two-in-one shampoo and conditioner his heart out ) into my breakfast cereal.

They took me to the camp infirmary, but the nurse told me, "I'm not really a nurse, ( but I play one on TV." I'm an escapee from the local insane asylum. I'm an engineer. )"

When I was released from the infirmary, I had to go on a nature walk, but some of the other kids ( tied my shoelaces together, convinced a skunk to spray my shoelaces, tied my shoelaces to my arms, ) so I really couldn't walk very far. I was getting thirsty, but imagine my shock when instead of bug juice in my canteen, I tasted ( real bugs! pond scum! a cheese smoothie! )

That night, dinner was no better. The spaghetti turned out to be ( worms. name tags that had been ripped off my underwear. my shoelaces. )

Swimming hasn't been any fun either. The lake is off-limits because it was found to contain

( the Loch Ness monster. all the cast members of Baywatch. not one single drop of water. ) Anyway, other than that I am having a ( fine horrible delightful ) time. You know, it wouldn't be the worst thing in the world if you were to ( visit me. call me. get me outta here right now! )

Having a wonderful summer. Wish I were ( home. home. home. )

While the kid's away, the dog will play.

SEEING DOUBLE

Donnie and Chuckie have swapped clothes just like they did in Rugrats Go Wild. But that's not the only difference between these pictures. We spotted over 35 changes. How many can you find? Answers on page 61.

Pullout Puzzle Book

Vacation often means lots of time spent in the car on your way somewhere. Beat backseat boredom with this pullout portable puzzle book, and have a very cool summer.

1 Carefully tear out the next two pages of the magazine.

2 Separate both sheets into two sections using the perforation across the middle.

3 Find the puzzler's cover. Fold it in half along the dotted line so that the line is on the outside.

4 Fold the other sheets in half, also with the red dotted line running down the outside.

5 Place the folded pages inside the cover. Make sure the page numbers are in order.

6 Staple the pages together as close as possible to the fold, and get puzzling!

Ready, Sit, Go!

Play these games with your fellow passengers to beat the boredom of the backseat.

100 MILES TO GO

PLAYERS: Two or more

OBJECT: Be the first person to reach 100 by adding up numbers that you pass on the road.

RULES: All players play at the same time. To reach 100, add up numbers from objects that you pass, such as signs, license plates, bumper stickers, and so on. The first player to call out an object is the only one who can use its numbers. You must use all the numbers on a named object—but you can use either the full number or the individual digits. For example, if you see a sign for Exit 85, you can either add 85 to your score or you can add the 8 and then the 5.

Whenever you add to your score, announce your new total out loud. If you get more than 100, your score automatically drops to zero. (You may want to do this on purpose if you're stuck at a high number and you know that the low number you need isn't likely to appear.)

SNEAK ATTACK: You can bring an opponent's score down to zero if you spot a number that is exactly equal to his or her current total.

ANOTHER WAY TO PLAY:

Turn off the radio and let the singing begin. One player hums the tune to a song. If another player correctly guesses the song, both players—the hummer and the guesser—earn a point. Then the player who correctly named the tune gets to hum a new song. Keep playing until someone reaches 11 points or until everyone is singing so much that you have to turn the radio back on.

GridLock

Right now (if you're driving somewhere) you're sharing the road with up to 35 makes of cars, which are listed below. Can you find their names in the grid at right? Car names may appear forward or backward, going across, up, down, and diagonally. (Ignore any hyphens and spaces.)

When you're done, start at the top left of the grid and read the 66 unused letters in order, row by row. They'll spell out a funny message. Answers on page 14.

Acura	GMC	Lexus	Pontiac
Audi	Honda	Lincoln	Porsche
BMW	Hyundai	Mazda	Saab
Buick	Infiniti	Mercedes-Benz	Saturn
Cadillac	Isuzu		Subaru
Chevrolet	Jaguar	Mercury	Suzuki
Chrysler	Jeep	Mitsubishi	Toyota
Dodge	Kia	Nissan	Volkswagen
Ford	Land Rover	Oldsmobile	Volvo

You Auto Know

In each box below, a phrase related to road travel is depicted in a very literal way. For example, the words in box 4 mean check under the hood. Can you figure out what the words in the other boxes stand for? (Hint: There's an alphabetical list of all the correct phrases at the bottom of this page.) Answers on page 14.

BONUS GAME: See how many car makes you can spot on the road. (If you want to play more competitively, the first person to spot 15 different makes is the winner.)

Mixed Messages

The billboards below are supposed to form rhyming advertising jingles for the four businesses at right. Unfortunately, the signs are all out of order. Can you figure out the jingles and match them to the correct businesses? The first line of each slogan is in row one, the second line is in row two, and so forth.
Answers on page 13.

FROM THERE TO HERE

Your family has just pulled into this gas station to ask directions. But there's something freaky about the Top Stop: If you remove the first letter in the names of 10 objects shown here, you'll get the names of 10 other pictured objects. For example, remove the s from the shoe and you get the hoe leaning against the garage. Can you spot the other nine pairs?

Answers on page 14.

ATTACK OF THE LICENSE PLATES

PLAYERS: Two or more

OBJECT: Make up the title of a wacky horror movie using the letters from passing license plates.

RULES: Players take turns coming up with movie titles. All titles start with "It's the Attack of." You complete the title by using each letter from a license plate as the first letter of the title's remaining words. For example, if you saw HZA, you could call out, "It's the Attack of the Hairy Zoo Animals." If you can't come up with a title, you are out of the game.

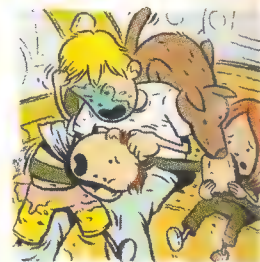

SNEAK ATTACK: If you see a police car, shout, "We're saved. The authorities have arrived!" That gives you a free pass to stay in the game if you get stumped during a later turn. If you were already out of the game, you get to rejoin.

NAME THAT TUNE

PLAYERS: Two or more

OBJECT: Identify songs and their artists.

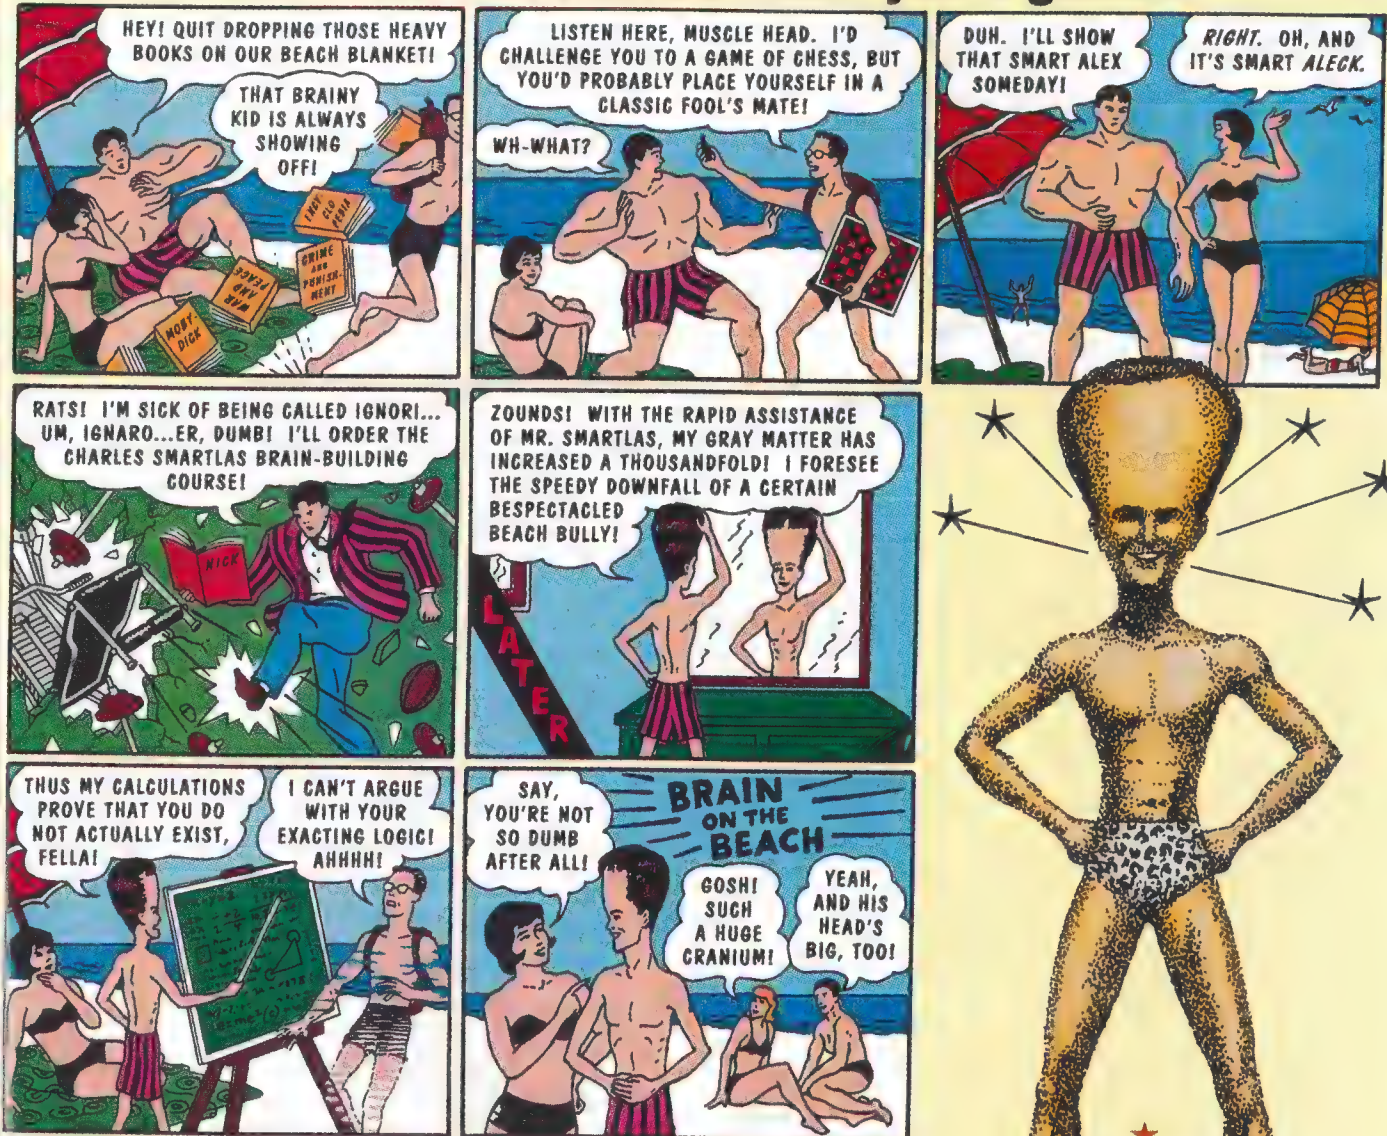

RULES: Turn on the radio and hit the seek button until a station comes in, or just tune the radio to a known station. The first player to name the song that's playing gets one point. The first person to name the artist wins one point. If a player knows both the song and the artist, he or she gets three points. If no one can name the tune or artist, move to a new station. The first player to reach 21 points wins.

Tee Time

Tee 1
TIGER WOODS

HOW TO PLAY

- To start each hole, place your pencil point anywhere on the orange tee box.
- Picture the "shot" you want to make, then CLOSE YOUR EYES and draw a line. When you stop your line, you've completed one shot. Now open your eyes and plan your next shot from where your line ended. Use this method for every shot.

- Keep taking shots until your line stops in the white hole on the green. Count up your total shots for the hole and write that score on the scorecard at right.

The lower the number, the better.

- You can compete against par (the expected score on each hole and in total), against a friend, or to improve your best score.
- For repeat play, erase your first game or use different colored pencils

Ready to hit the links? Well, fore-get the balls and clubs—all you need here is a steady hand and a pencil.

- You CANNOT shoot over trees or the Black Hole on the eighth hole, but you CAN shoot over water (blue areas) and sand traps (yellow areas).

- If your shot lands in or crosses the trees or the Black Hole, add one (a penalty stroke) to your score, and take your next shot from the spot where you first entered the hazard. The same penalty applies for shots that land off the page, in the rules area, in the water, or on a different hole than the one you're on.

- If you land in a sand trap,

there is no penalty stroke, but you must use your OTHER HAND to make your next shot!

One Cheese Puzzle With Everything

Your mother said not to start without her, but you and your friends couldn't wait to get at this cheese pizza topped with pepperoni, candy bars, toenails, dandelions, ladybugs, french fries, and pretzels. Quick—figure out how to put the pizza back together before Mom notices. (Maybe she won't see the bite you took.) Look carefully at where the ingredients have been cut. One slice has been placed to get you started.

Note: One extra slice was delivered separately.
Can you figure out which one doesn't belong with this pizza?
Answer on page 63.

Decide and Conquer

Seven evil geniuses have teamed up in their quest to take over the world. When all the fools who oppose them are vanquished, each genius will rule one continent. The trouble is, these villains are pretty picky. Using the map and the clues below (and a piece of paper), can you figure out which conqueror should rule which continent? Answers on page 63.

Clues

- Criminella insists on having the largest continent, Asia.
- Aqua-Tyrant must rule a continent completely surrounded by water (either Australia or Antarctica) so his mutant fish army can protect him.
- Empress Teegrah won't rule a continent that connects by land to Criminella's, because she's still mad at Criminella over a fight they had at Villainova College.
- Lord Vengeance and Lord Vengeance Jr. have to be on continents that are connected by land so that Junior can easily collect his allowance.
- Professor Coldfinger cannot live on a continent that reaches inside the Arctic or Antarctic circles, or else the rest of him might freeze up for good.
- Lord Vengeance must live on the equator to avoid the high costs of heating his invincible battle fortress.
- Penguins and cats don't get along, so villains with cats should not live in Antarctica.

Or in my house.

CROSS COMIX

by Robert Leighton

Cross Comix is a game that's part crossword puzzle, part comics section. On the opposite page are 16 panels. Each panel has a letter on it. When the panels are put in the right order, the letters will spell out four different interlocking words and create four different comic strips. Cut out the panels and move them around, or do the puzzle in your head. Answers on page 63.

Fetch me a pencil.

Hints:

Wrapper's Delight

Ken D. Kane, the candy store tycoon, is a bit eccentric. He writes all his store's orders with letters from candy and gum wrappers. Can you identify the 32 treats Mr. Kane used to make this note? Hint: Six candies are used twice in the message. Answers on page 63.

Ken you make that 301 crates?

IT'S NOT GREEK TO US

When archaeologist Will U. Digget unearthed this mural depicting the Olympic Games of 300 bc, he thought he had made the discovery of a lifetime. Unfortunately, on closer inspection, the painting turned out to be an Olympic-size forgery. Digget spotted more than 25 things that didn't exist back then. How many mistakes can you find? Answers on page 63.

We found these letters written by famous historical figures when they were kids at summer camp. Can you figure out who wrote which letter? Write the correct numbers in the blanks below.

BUNK MAIL

Dear Mum and Dad,
We is me. 'Tis Midsummer Night, and the Drama Club hath just performed one of my plays. It was not well liked. I feel I am not appreciated here. In fact, I don't know whether to be here or not to be here. If my next play (about a fellow named Romeo) is also a disaster, please hasten hither and bring me home to Stratford-upon-Avon anon.

Yours,
J. C.

CAMP GENIUS

Dear Mother and Father,
I have been thinking of you a great deal lately. I am well and hope you are the same. I have been thinking of you a great deal lately. I am well and hope you are the same.

I have been thinking of you a great deal lately. I am well and hope you are the same. I have been thinking of you a great deal lately. I am well and hope you are the same.

Dear Mother and Father,
I love this camp. Yesterday I administered my first smallpox shot. What a thrill! And the day before, I applied poultices to the legs of 52 campers who were felled by poison ivy. I'm exhausted from staying up all night with a camper who got sick after gorging himself on five pounds of caramels sent from home, but I feel I am really needed here.

With love,
Ollie Ollie

Dear Ma and Pa,
Until a few days ago I was not a happy camper. I was so bored. But while singing that old song, "Found a Peanut," I got the idea to devote my summer to the little legume! I've already come up with 247 new uses for the peanut, and if I make it to 300 I'll get the "Camper of the Year" award! Please send preserves.

Your son,

CAMP CESSNA

Dear Mother and Father,
Time is certainly flying by up here. Last week I became the first girl in camp history to swim nonstop across the pond. After that, who knows? The sky's the limit! I'm a little worried about my upcoming polo bike ride, but if I get lost, I'll just wing it. Hope this letter finds you (and you find me).

Mum

Dear Mom and Dad,
Send bones.

CAMP SKIPPY

CAMP HIKE-A-LOT

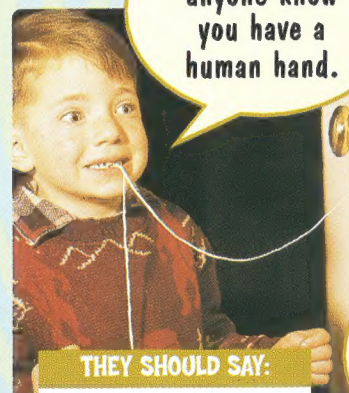

Dear Mother and Father,
Advanced Hiking is fun, but our counselor, Lewis, never seems to know where he's going (and his assistant, Clark, is no help). Were it not for my knowledge of trails, we would surely die. Right now we're on a very long hike. We had only planned to go for some lemonade but ended up heading for the Pacific Ocean.
